ASE Tests Moving from Paper-and-Pencil to Computer by 2012

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) has begun the process of transitioning all ASE certification tests from paper-and-pencil written format to computer-based format by 2012. Written tests will be offered for the final two times this May and in November 2011.

Enhanced computer-based testing for all ASE certification categories will debut in July and August 2011 at more than 300 test centers across the U.S. and Canada. Beginning in January 2012 and going forward, computer-based testing will be available eight months of the year.

Computer-based testing (CBT) offers test-takers advantages in scheduling, convenience, and speed over ASE's written tests. When fully implemented, ASE's CBT will be offered in two-month windows, four times each year. This will offer everyone a vast choice of daytime, night, and weekend reserved appointments. Perhaps the biggest benefit: test-takers will know if they passed before leaving the test center!

In short, computer-based testing positions ASE for enhanced delivery of industry-recognized certification tests—with additional customer service features before, during, and after testing.

Establishing a free "myASE" account is like having a VIP pass to ASE. You can manage your ASE account, check your certification status, sign up for ASE E-News, and more in a secure, online setting.

ASE Computer-Based Testing Speeds Results

Other Enhancements at ASE

To help ease the switchover to computer-based testing, ASE has redesigned its website to make www.ASE.com your go-to place for all things ASE. We've improved the navigation, cut down the clutter, and freshened the graphics for a clean updated look—all designed to help you get the information you need and get it fast. Rich content and a new ASE Community section will make your online experience even more rewarding.

ASE is also improving its "myASE" portal so you'll be able to manage your account, register online for your certification tests, sign up for E-newsletters, check account balances, and more.

CBT Offers Familiar ASE-Style Questions with 21st Century Speed and Flexibility

If you have experience with ASE paper-and-pencil tests, you'll find the new Computer-Based tests very familiar. Test-takers will find the traditional multiple choice format; Technician A/Technician B questions; questions that ask you to complete a statement or answer a question, etc. And just like paper-and-pencil tests, you'll be able to skip around from section to section and move forward and back.

Among the advantages of CBT are the improved graphics on diagrams and charts that accompany the test questions. And with no more separate answer sheets to fill in manually with pencils, there's less chance of fill-in errors.

Each CBT test session includes a tutorial to familiarize you with the computer interface, which is designed to be simple to use. And, of course, each test center is staffed by test proctors trained to help.

If you'd like to take CBT for a "test drive" before taking an actual test, check out the Online CBT Demo posted on our website at www.ase.com.

CBT for Your Busy Life

While ASE has kept the look and feel of its computer-based test questions similar to those found on its paper-and-pencil tests and kept the pricing the same as written testing, CBT offers enhancements designed to meet you—and your employer's—needs as busy professionals.

Instant test results means no more waiting to find out whether you need to re-take a test in an upcoming test session. Your employer will have an easier time managing ASE certification across the entire shop team, too.

Having four two-month testing windows each year and more time slots each testing day means you'll spend less time in traffic and more time doing things that are important to you. You won't have to choose between testing and attending your child's game or opening day of hunting season. You can even reschedule your appointment within three days of making it at no charge.

For their part, employers and service managers will be able to stagger their techs' testing schedules to avoid having an empty shop at testing time.

And since CBT sites are expanding from 230 to more than 300, there's a good chance the distance you'll need to travel for testing will remain the same or actually decrease.

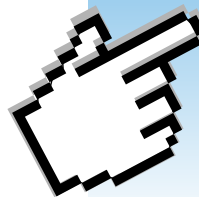

In turn, going the CBT route offers ASE a faster, more accurate means of administering and scoring your certification tests, which helps keep costs down.

ASE is expanding its computer-based testing to more than 300 sites in July. By 2012, the transition to CBT will be complete. The CBT platform offers 21st century speed and flexibility while maintaining familiar ASE test questions.

ASE Supports

Q. Can I still take the tests on paper-and-pencil?

A. Yes, for now. Written tests will be available during ASE's May and November test sessions through 2011.

Q. When do the written tests phase out?

A. The last written tests will be offered November 2011.

Q. I thought ASE already had computer-based testing. What is changing?

A. Until now, CBT offerings and locations have been limited. Beginning in July 2011, every ASE certification test and its recertification counterpart will be available in CBT format. Also, the number of CBT test sites will increase from 230 to more than 300 locations.

Q. When do I get my test scores? When do I get my certificate?

You'll know whether you've passed before leaving the CBT center. Certificates will arrive via mail after the end of the two-month testing window.

Q. Where are the computer test centers? Are they the same as the written test centers? Are they the same as the current ASE computer test centers?

A. As ASE switches over to computer-based testing, the test center locations will change, but we'll be adding more locations. The tests will initially be offered at more than 300 test centers across the U.S. and Canada, with more sites added over time.

Q. Can I take the ASE certification tests on my computer at home or at work?

A. No. Although ASE does offer some non-certification programs online, ASE certification tests are only offered in secure, proctored test centers. This gives everyone a fair, consistent, and reliable testing environment, where the identity of each person taking a test is also verified. These are benefits that can't be reproduced through online testing at home or work.

Q. How much time do I get to take the computer-based tests?

A. Each computer-based test has a comfortable time limit, usually from 1 to 2 hours, depending on the test. Most recertification tests have fewer questions, with a time limit of 30 or 45 minutes, with L1 and L2 Advanced Level at two hours. The exact time allowed for each test is available at www.ase.com. When you schedule your tests, a half-hour is added to each appointment to allow time for check-in, a pre-test tutorial and a post-test survey.

Q. If I fail a test, can I take it again?

Yes, but not during the same test window. You must wait until the next testing window to retake.

Q. Will ASE offer CBT tests in Spanish?

A. No. All tests will be given in English; however, an on-screen English/Spanish glossary of automotive terms will be available in all of the computer-based tests.

Ongoing updates will be posted at www.ase.com.
